

Laser Dentistry

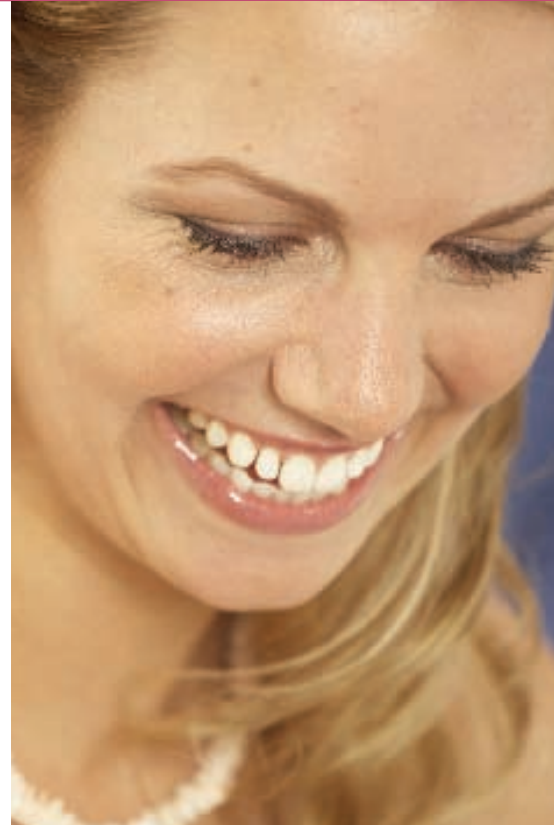

The dental laser is used in certain cases requiring minimal intervention. It can often be used without the need of an anaesthetic and allows your treatment to be completed at a "molecular" level.

We have provided this technology at Sure Dental so that you can be offered the best options in the modern world of dentistry.

In addition to cavity preparations, we can also use our laser technology to remove and re-contour the gum tissue. This treatment is ideal for those who suffer from over active gum growth or a 'gummy' smile. The laser offers a neat incision that heals very quickly due to its ability to seal the blood vessels to minimise the bleeding.

In addition to its many other benefits, laser dentistry is relatively quick making it a popular choice for many of our patients.
